Council Requests Study By County Commission

Appomattox Town County Commission Council, meeting Monday evening, will request the Appomattox County Planning Commission to consider changing two parts of the Subdivision Ordinance in effect in the town.

One change concerns the present definition of a sub-division. The other concerns the amount of right-of-way which landowners are asked to give at the time of the setting up of a subdivision. Commission will be asked to consider a subdivision as a division of land into two or more parcels instead of the present definition as "three or more parcels of 5 acres or less". Landowners may be asked to give enough land to allow 25 feet from the center of a subdivision road, allowing for a 50-foot road. As it is now, it i possible, councilmen agreed, that a subdivision road could be a jagged line, with fifty feet going to the left or to the right, depending on whether development was on one side of the road or another and whether both sides of a given road were under development.

Council expressed sympathy for the family of Mrs. Hal F. Clark (Ruby) who died unexpectedly Monday morning. Mrs. Clark had served for several years as a member of the Appomattox County Planning Commission. Council members Mrs. Calvin Robinson and Robert Hubbard were appointed by Mayor H. B. Pack to draw up a resolution of respect.

Council was told by the mayor that an effort is underway to divide the Southside voting precinct into Southside and the town of Appomattox and that town voting might take place in the Town Hall.

The annual Firemen's Dinner will be held Monday night, Dec. 21 at Maude's with Town Council meeting to follow.

Building permits issued by C. S. Booth include three resid-

Probably Mrs. Hemingway is best known for her television program from WXEX-TV, Petersburg, Virginia, where she demonstrated flower arranging. The program was sponsored by the Piedmont District of the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs.

Cole Moves For New Referendum

Appomattox County School superintendent Earl J. Smith brought to county supervisors Friday a resolution from the School Board asking that "we again give the voters of this county the opportunity to express their views on the educational program they wish to support for their county." He said that regardless of the outcome of the November 11 $2 million school bond referendum, defeated 1755 to 1749, "the need for an additional educational facility is still with us."

Appearing with the superintendent was Cloverhill district board member R. H. Gray.

Southside supervisor John C. Cole made a motion that the Board request the Circuit Judge to set a date for a vote on the bond issue to "see if it is possible to come out with a more definite expression of our citizens." He said he feels the bond referendum is necessary "due to the closeness of the vote and in that the need for a larger High School still is urgent, also this being the most economical way to fund the program."
